Johannes Dotter takes over the management of ALPINE

▶ Personnel decision underlines the owner's clear commitment to ALPINE as an Austrian enterprise

SALZBURG Austria's second largest construction company, the Salzburg- based ALPINE, will now be managed by the experienced construction manager, DI Johannes Dotter. The 50-year-old Austrian national was appointed as the managing director of ALPINE Holding, a global player company. ALPINE operates in 30 countries and generates revenue from construction services of around 3.5 billion euros each year.

By appointing DI Johannes Dotter, ALPINE's owner, the FCC Group based in Madrid, and Salzburg's Dietmar Aluta-Oltyan demonstrate their clear commitment to ALPINE as an Austrian company. DI Johannes Dotter has over 25 years of experience in the branch and is a first-class manager with a perfect knowledge of Austria, ALPINE's domestic market. The Austria bonus and his extensive international experience are ideal prerequisites for the successful continuation of ALPINE's business under a new management.

Born February 7, 1961 in Vienna, Johannes Dotter graduated from the School of Engineering in Mödling before studying civil engineering at the Vienna University of Technology. Dotter started his career in the construction industry in 1987, holding various executive offices in renowned Austrian construction companies. Dotter was a director with PORR AG before advancing to the position of managing director of Austria's second largest construction company, ALPINE Holding GmbH. Johannes Dotter is married and has two daughters.

ALPINE: an Austrian success story

The Austrian ALPINE Construction Company is a member of the FCC Group and has built roads, motorways, power plants, stadiums, railways and subways, bridges, residential, commercial and industrial buildings around the world. Together with its subsidiary, ALPINE-ENERGIE, it promotes the construction and development of sustainable, alternative energies and energy networks. Approximately half of the revenue from construction services of around 3.5 billion euros per year is generated in Austria's domestic market.

ALPINE has won international acclaim with foreign projects: ALPINE is responsible for the construction of three stadiums for the 2012 European Football Championships in Poland as well as
